

To those readers who follow the Jack Pine writings just to see what kind of a mood I am in, I can tell you that I am in a real jolly mood... feel fine... have no major complaints... am fully rested... and awfully glad to be back in Grayling!

(Before I go much further, I have a personal message to send to a sister-in-law who has just moved to Minnesota. Dear Jane: Here with is your first copy of the Crawford County Avalanche. I bought you a year's subscription, and if you are real nice to me next Christmas, I will renew it.)

Have a few random notes left over from the Hawaiian trip which may or may not make for good reading. Have to use them, though, since Jack Pine hasn't been back long enough to catch up on very many things. The language used by the Hawaiians is interesting. They use all five vowels, but only seven consonants. The letter "W" is pronounced like "V," thus the very word Hawaii sounds like Ha-vi-o-o. Triple Army Hospital is located near the town of Aiea. Try that one. Actually, it comes out to be Eye-ec-ah. Then there is the Kaaawa Beach. Had a picnic there, and had a picture taken of old Jack Pine and a very good palm tree. Kaaawa is pronounced Kah-ah-vah. But I think the prettiest expression I heard out there was Merry Christmas, which in Hawaiian is Mele Kalikimaka.

Then there was a stewardess of Northwest Airlines who explained that it takes five years of domestic flights before stewardesses can run the trans-Pacific flights. They start out on DC-3's, the old twin-engine ship used communally before and during the war. The only place that Northwest still uses DC-3's to any extent is in Montana, running between towns. Flight attendants call them the "Vomit Comet" and anyone who has ever flown in the state of Montana will readily understand why. Ugh!

Drive across the new bridge at Meekins was quite a different experience in time saving. It made a difference of nearly two hours in our drive to Minnesota. But what really got me was the fact that there was just one lone restaurant open between the bridge and Manitowish. Those people up there ought to wake up to the fact that the new bridge is going to bring more traffic year round, and that this traffic is going to demand such necessary items as gasoline, food and lodging. Right now it's like driving through a desert, populated by empty buildings with signs reading "closed for the winter."

Over in Minnesota they have a cute system of enforcing the speed limit. There are the usual signs, just like we have in Michigan, and everyone knows that these limits can safely be exceeded by five to ten miles per hour. But in some areas, there is a small sign posted above the regular sign. This reads, "ABSO-LUTE," and woe to he who exceeds it. I didn't, but those who have said that the limit is the limit is enough to bring the sound of sirens.

I suppose I could sum up the Hawaiian trip by saying that before we left we were anxious to go. Now that we are back, we want more than ever to go back again. It's that kind of place. Jack Pine has been to about every state in the union, and to Europe, besides that, he can honestly say that Hawaii is the ONLY place he has a burning desire to visit again. Some day, perhaps, we will.

I found a note waiting for me when I got back to the effect that some of our citizens have gotten into quite a state over the fact that the Chamber of Commerce sign on US-27 south of town carries a "commercial" for Grover Cason and his properties. What these good citizens haven't bothered to find out is that Cason paid to have the entire sign painted, and that, in gratitude, the Chamber of Commerce let him use half of it. Personally, Jack Pine feels that anything Mr. Cason can do to build up a property near the B & C will be a great credit to the community and serve to promote local growth. Now what reasonable person could object to that? Reminds me of something I read about a city limits sign. Outside the city limits it gave the name of the town and beneath it "Population: 2000 people and a few soreheads."

JACK PINE.

Miss Grayling '58 To Be Chosen Saturday

Success Story: Thousands Of Polio Victims Try Comeback - Succeed

Blonde little Wanda Bradley, now going on six, has a wonderful success story to tell her playmates these days in her home town of Alexandria, La. It's the kind of success story Americans everywhere can be proud of, for it was made possible by their donations to the March of Dimes.

On June 8, 1956, when Wanda was only four, she was struck down by spino-bulbar polio. Paralysis affected her limb muscles. Worse, she couldn't breathe. Her survival depended on an iron lung, which was rushed to her aid by the local chapter of the March of Dimes organization.

Members of the Air Force from Wurtsmith Air Base at Osceola served as an honor guard. The Rev. R. C. Puffer officiated at the rites. Mrs. Floyd Taylor played the organ and sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Interment was in Elmwood mausoleum.

Gary was the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gust. He was born August 19, 1939, and had lived in Grayling all his life until his enlistment in the Air Force on June 1, 1957. After leaving the road the Gust auto struck a tree some 20 feet off the pavement. Gary was wedged behind the wheel as the car wrapped itself around the tree. A passenger in his car, Ronald Schofield, was thrown from the car and suffered injuries to his jaw, collar bone, ribs and spleen, which were later removed. The accident was discovered by a passing Indiana motorist, the first to reach the scene. Schofield is reported to be making a good recovery at Mercy Hospital.

Holiday Accidents Injure Three Persons

Although there was the usual rash of accidents over the holidays, only three persons suffered personal injury. Several damage collisions occurred.

On December 27, a late-model 1957 Ford, driven by Raymond J. Armstrong, 44, of Regina, Sask., driver of the car, told Sheriff John Papendick that he was watching for high-way directional signs and failed to see the flasher light operating on the crossing until too late to avoid the accident. Sheriff Papendick said Armstrong told him that he jammed on his brakes when he saw the train at the crossing. His car skidded on the icy pavement and crossed sideways into the train, about two cars behind the engine.

Armstrong escaped injury but his sister, Miss Helen Armstrong, 37, of Regina, suffered severe injuries to her right arm and side that required hospitalization.

Two people were injured on New Year's day on US-27 about one mile south of Grayling at 3:45 p. m. The car, driven by Robert Jones, 48, of Madison, left the highway and struck a tree.

The driver suffered cuts about the head and Miss Burnis Meech, 21, of Grayling, a passenger in the car, suffered a fractured leg and a bruised chest. Both were taken to Mercy Hospital. Sheriff's officers investigated the accident.

How To Produce A Slump...

Sylvia Porter, the popular syndicated writer on business and financial affairs, tells of a letter she received from a reader who signed herself "simple housewife". This reader, angry at today's high prices, wanted Miss Porter to advocate what amounts to a buyers' strike. As she put it: "Please tell our people to ask prices and pointedly to refuse to buy too highly priced items, no matter how badly they seem to be needed... Let's stop buying... until merchants are forced to reason."

Miss Porter's reply to that proposal begins with a one-word paragraph -- "Well!" -- and consists of an unequivocal and forceful NO. There is, she says, only one stimulant which can prevent a business slump of some dimension this year, and that is continued strong buying by America's consumers. She continues: "If we, America's consumers, pull back now -- if we go in for massive resistance to buying any food, clothing, furniture, appliances, etc., etc., we don't absolutely need -- we'll turn today's slowdown into a slump in a matter of weeks."

"If we follow my neighbor's urging and 'stop buying' until merchants are forced to reason," we'll force them 'to reason' fast. We'll also force countless numbers of them into bankruptcy, we'll send joblessness skyrocketing, we'll create a general crash." And that isn't all, as she also makes clear. For a big slump would inevitably cause the government to go into pump-priming on a huge scale -- and then we'd be set for runaway inflation.

The merchants didn't create inflation and high prices -- they, like the rest of us, are among the victims. Their profits are generally moderate. And competition forces them to sell at the lowest possible prices.

Miss Porter advises us to shop carefully, look for bargains and cold-shoulder any profiteers we may find. That's only sensible. But a buyer's strike would amount to cutting off the nose to spite the face.

No Substitute For Printed Word...

Man's appetite for news is enormous. We have to be deprived of it before we fully understand how we crave this form of mental nourishment.

SATURDAY IN SUBURBIA

A Reuter's dispatch tells of an ex-American soldier, captured in Korea, who chose to live in Red China with his Chinese wife. The one extravagance in which he indulges is a subscription to a news agency bulletin printed in English. It cost 15 yuan ($6.30) a month -- one sixth of his income. He told a reporter: "I felt he must get news somehow."

Too few persons appreciate a newspaper until it is hard to get. Most Americans take it for granted. The ex-soldier has a radio but he finds nothing takes the place of printed words.

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

23 Years Ago -- January 10, 1935

While January thaws continue to reduce sliding facilities to a discouraging nothingness, a loyal band of Winter Sports officials and workers refuse to believe Old Man Weather can be harsh for long as they go about knocking the rough edges off plans for Grayling's greatest snow show, the Tenth Annual Winter Sports carnival. The scheduled opening of the park last weekend was accompanied by a visit from the weather jinx that has played such havoc in the past. For two weeks the weather has been cold and convincing, but Saturday found the temperature high and by Sunday the park covered with a soft, sloppy slush that made everything but the ski-jump and skating rink an impossibility. Weather permitting, the park will be open every weekend until the final spree, January 25, 26 and 27. Cooperating in the advertising and publicity for the carnival is the East Michigan Tourist Association. The Queen this year is to be sponsored by the Woman's Club. Though no definite system of balloting has been decided upon it is believed the public will again be asked to make the selection. On the program for the carnival weekend is a banquet or two, a ball and entertainment of all kinds. Of special interest will be the throne contest conducted by Johnny Deckrow, talented local selector.

Successor Sentiment

By Jim Bourrie

HOUS "HOW TO'S"

Stranger poked a sharp fin-
in my shoulders and said,
"I've been reading your column."
What a "How To!"

The world is full of them.
You may have a personal "How To"
of your own. Magazines and books are loaded with them.

A best seller bore the title, "How To Win Friends
and Influence People."

An article for amateur carpenters is called, "How to Build a Dog House." I bought one as a future project, but the dimensions were only "Dog Size."

One story on eating artichokes
... with one hand ... has me convinced that artichokes may become as popular as Italian Pizza Pies. The author designed a plate with a spike in the center.
The artichoke is fixed on the spike, and the eater peels off the leaves with one hand and reaches the sauce dish with the other. Anybody know how to prepare an artichoke for the spike?

A snail but powerful book bears the title, "How to Get a Rise" and guarantees results.
Everything in the book is on page 1, and simply states, "Take an Elevator."

One of our customers is preparing a copy for a feature called "How to Save While Enjoying Food Shopping." Her material has been gathered at our store.
She knows that we save her money and give her quality merchandise. She likes the friendly atmosphere of our home-owned store. She said we're big enough to save her money and small enough to be human.

See you next week when we discuss, "No Eyes in His Head."
